A scream in the night, and in that instant the world changed ... or at least, it appeared to. There have always been forces in the world and voices in the night: some friendly and other malevolent. Invisible until summoned, they slide through dimensions as people walk through doorways. They wait, and watch the doings of Man closely ... each for their own reasons. Sometimes, they appear ... and when they do, the world changes again.

Everyone knows about Boogiepop: meet her one dark night and you are taken. People tell each other the stories and laugh: no one believes that she exists in this day and age. Still, there are some strange things that appear to be going on just below the surface. Darkness takes many forms, though. Evil and good intermingle. The glass shatters. Time stands still. There is something in the darkness. You aren't alone. Are you safe? Five years ago, there was a string of grisly murders that shook the city to its core ... and in the present, psychic echoes reverberate.

Something's not right in the Universe: UPSF ships are being destroyed and it looks like the Raalgon forces are to blame. It would be a logical conclusion that they're behind this: it's no secret they're not happy about the war's resolution any more than the UPSF is. Worse, there was that very recent situation with the weapon developed in Raalgon laboratories first seen in "An Exceptional Episode". It certainly looks like the shooting is going to start up once again, and this time it won't end until both sides are utterly destroyed.

Jockeying for position in this upcoming war, neither side has given their situation a great deal of thought ... but it appears to each that the UPSF might have an advantage this time around. Having developed their own secret weapon and now being able to deploy it, the UPSF has the Raalgon forces concerned. This new weapon is almost as destabilizing as the Raalgon anti-shield weapon ... but it renders most of the UPSF's ships obsolete.

For some in the high command, though, there is a tiny nagging voice in the back of their minds. Could something else be going on here? Find out in the final volume of the Irresponsible Captain Tylor! Also includes music videos featuring the series cast!

The original TV series DVD release of Tylor has been a best seller - capture more sales with repeat customers with the OVA releases!

The shooting war is over. The undefeated Soyokaze has returned home and all should be right in the universe. It's not ... the Raalgon Empire has created an incredibly powerful and destabilizing new weapon system. With the urging of the Prime Minister, they're about to deploy it and when the UPSF forces realize this the choice is clear. These are desperate times ...

The shape of the future will be determined by the actions of very unlikely allies. Their choices will be difficult and their situation may well be hopeless. Any hope for galactic peace rests on the most irresponsible man in history. Perhaps Tylor will stay awake for this.

There is an ancient legend on a distant planet which states (among other things) that four goddesses will one day descend from the skies and all will be right with the world. Meanwhile, Yohko and the rest of the Terra team (with one straggler) have crashed on a backwater world, and they have to figure out a way off before their new charge ... gets hungry again!

Also on this volume: Every so often, a celebration takes place in one of the most beautiful places in the Universe ... a cosmic Sakura fest! Since the Terra Team has been doing so well, one of them is invited to join the high command as they meet their opposite numbers from NESS. It's a time of celebration and a time of peace ... but it seems that someone didn't get the message!

A thousand or so years from now, people have a very civilized way of settling conflict: each side picks representatives, give them spaceships and have them fly against each other. The team that loses the skirmish also give up their side's claim. Very handy ... unless you happen to have fighters not up to the task.

Terra team has had it tough lately: Ness' "Red Snappers" team has had things their way. Even with technically superior ships, things are bleak for Terra ... and to make matters worse, they only have three pilots. There has been a concerted effort to recruit girls (who are naturally the best pilots, anyway) from the past (specifically, the late 20th century) but despite the best efforts the team keeps losing. They need someone special. They need a pilot of extraordinary skill to crew the new model ship. They need ... Yamamoto Yohko (whose reputation certainly preceeds her, and this may not be a good thing).

All they have to do is convince her that a better life awaits her in the future, that she will have new friends, new videogames, and some powerful hypertechnology (some things will take less prodding than others). Yohko will (if she joins) fight alongside a strange assortment of women and against an even stranger quartet. All of them are out for blood and even the least capable member is surprisingly effective. At stake is, well, everything ... every time they go out on a mission.

Are you ready?
